Min øde ø

Ude i verden sætter Corona virus sine spor på hverdagen. Jeg sidder her alene i mit hus. Jeg føler, at jeg er som bosiddende på en ensom, fjern ø langt borte fra andre mennesker. Det er realiteten nu, hvor denne Corona-virus hærger som en pandemi. Jeg holder mig så vidt muligt for mig selv i denne tid.

Men så kan man jo tage en rejse i fantasiens verden. Høje bjerge, dybe fjorde, vildmark ud til de fjerneste horisonter.

Det paradoksale er, at disse rejser i mine drømme oftest fører mig til steder, hvor der stort set ikke bor mennesker. Jeg drømmer om isolation og vildmark.

My desert island

Across the whole world, the Corona virus exercises a great influence on everyday life. Now, I am sitting alone in my house. I feel like I am a resident on a lonely, remote island far away from other people. That is the reality now, when the Corona virus is raging like a pandemic. In these days I keep myself to myself as much as possible.

But then you can take a journey in the world of fantasy. High mountains, deep fjords, wilderness to the farthest horizons.

The paradox is that these journeys in my dreams most often lead me to places, where there virtually are no people living. I dream of isolation and wilderness.
