Sejlads i skærgården

Blot en tur til nabobyen. Men nabobyen i Grønland for min daværende hjemby Nuuk ligger altså 145 kilometer længere mod nord.

Sejladsen foregik i en Targa båd. Vejrudsigten fortalte om lidt vind, men også dis og tåge. Det er en vanskelig sejlads, og bortset fra et par små bosætninger, ligger strækningen helt øde hen.

Derfor er det fornuftigt at følges ad. Vi havde en jolle i kølvandet under hele den lange sejlads.

Det er efterhånden mange år siden, men det er hver gang en fornøjelse for mig at genopleve sejladsen via mine fotografier fra den gang.

En fantastisk naturoplevelse i en verden de færreste kender.

Sailing in the archipelago

Just a trip to the neighbouring town. But the neighbouring town in Greenland for my then hometown of Nuuk is 145 kilometres further north.

The voyage took place in a Targa boat. The weather forecast told of some wind, but also mist and fog. It is a difficult voyage and, apart from a few small settlements, the stretch is completely deserted.

That is why it makes sense to go together. We had a dinghy in our wake during the entire long voyage.

That was many years ago, but it is always a pleasure for me to relive the sailing through my photographs from that time.

A fantastic nature experience in a world, few people know.
