En helt anden verden

Det er oktober måned. Vi er taget ud i Lille Vildmose før dag-gry. Solen er ved at stige op ude over havet. Langsomt begynder dagslyset at tone frem. Vi kan endnu ikke se selve solen, men den sender allerede sit lys ind over mosen.

Det har været en klar og stille nat. Den fugtige luft over mosen har dannet dis og tåge. Tågen strækker sit grålige legeme hen over de lavere dele af terrænet. Tågen ligger som et smalt tæppe ud over mosen. Oven over kan vi se og høre sangsvanerne komme ind fra deres natlogi ved kysten.

Jeg kommer som oftest i mosen midt på dagen, men denne tidlige morgen får mosen mig til at føles fremmed. Jeg oplever det, som træder ind i en helt anden verden.

A completely different world

It is October. We have set out to the bog, Lille Vildmose, before dawn. The sun is beginning to rise over the sea. Slowly, daylight starts to emerge. We cannot yet see the sun, but it is already casting its light over the bog.

It has been a clear and calm night. The moist air over the bog has created haze and fog. The fog stretches its grey form across the lower parts of the terrain, lying like a thin blanket over the bog. Above, we can see and hear the whooper swans arriving from their nighttime resting place by the coast.

I usually come to the bog in the middle of the day, but this early morning makes the bog feel foreign to me. I feel as though I am stepping into a completely different world.
